Clean Air Engineering
Public Statement

COMMITMENT to IMPARTIALITY

Since the founding in 1972, one of Clean Air's core values has been our commitment to integrity. Maintenance of impartiality is key to our integrity and our integrity is key to developing long-term relationships with our clients.

Impartiality must be preserved in every aspect of every project accepted by the company.

To insure that this ideal is instilled in every employee, all new employees undergo integrity and ethics training including training on conflict of interest and impartiality. All CleanAir employees are required to annually revisit our core values and assist the company in continuously improving our integrity commitment by participating in, and making mandatory contributions to, our ethics and data quality improvement processes.

This commitment to integrity and impartiality continues as we expand our services into GHG validation and verification activities.
